Review: SIGRADI Congress 2010 in Bogotá offers a reflection on the discontinuity and continuity in the processes of creation and development of projects in various disciplines.

The development of products, services and infrastructure in general, involves systematic development of models, prototypes and innovative proposals for buildings that materialize, however, it is important to note that at present the disruption, as a method, strategy or thinking is a great contribution to create, innovate and invent.

From the uniqueness and specificity of different disciplines, with their models, processes, methods and goals, building a rich cross-line reflection and practice in digital media. SIGRADI Congress 2010, offers a privileged forum for generating dialogue changing.
