Title: Addendum to "Theory and evidence on pricing by asymmetric oligopolists" [Articles in Scientific Journals] CenK Kocag, Tungya Kiyak.
Authors: CenK Kocag, Tungya Kiyak.

Abstract: In Kocag and Kiyak (2006) we fail to benefit from an already existing solution to the asymmetric firm pricing model as presented in Baye et al. (1992). In their work, Baye et al. (1992) provide a characterization of the equilibria in an oligopoly when unformed customers do not allocate themselves equally across firms and when reservation prices across firms are homogeneous. The characterization of the equilibria when reservation prices across firms are homogeneous (propositions 1 through 4) in Kocag and Kiyak (2006) is a substantial component of the theoretical part of our paper and hence we recognize the precedence of Baye et al. (1992) in presenting this characterization. We present an analysis of markets with many asymmetrically positioned retailers that compete for the business of both informed and uninformed customers for a homogeneous good, such as software, music, books or a brand-name appliance. We show that two forms of asymmetry, one related to loyal segment sizes of customers and the other to the number of different retailers in the market, affect customer dispersion in such markets and the multitude of asymmetrical strategies adopted by retailers. The stochastic dominance of empirical fitted strategy measures is used to test the theory with data on 668 books from 13 online retailers.

Keywords: Price comparison shopping; Price competition; Oligopoly; Internet economics.

System requirements: World Wide Web browser software.

Abstract. We extend the analysis of pricing by asymmetric oligopolies by considering a market where firms have different costs and different market shares. We show that under certain conditions, firms may price below their marginal cost, leading to market instability.

Keywords: asymmetric oligopolies, market instability, pricing strategies.

Research Database

Overview

The Research Database Application (GNU [Eprints]) has been launched on September 2007.

Only Sabancı University members can login the application using their Kılıçlar account and deposit items. Everyone can search or browse the repository for only public items from internet.

Determines the new application and online environment operations have been managed by advisory group members.
In this context, the current research database has been migrated to the database of the new application including all archives. The abstract of the main facilities which is supplied by the new application is as below:

Features
- User friendly interface
  - Customizes viewing in a column style interface
  - In place help for every entry
- Auto completion for Creators, Authors, Editors names for Sabanci University members
- Fulltext/Document:
  - Supports different file formats (PDF, PostScript, MS Word, MS PowerPoint, HTML)
  - Possible to upload multiple documents for an item
  - Indicating the security level for every document (file is allowed to download)
  - For restricted documents, visitors can request a copy within the application
- Systemwide copy data for documents (fully accessible after file selection)
- Searching unique license for every document (Creative Commons license, as WordPerfect, or .Wikipedia)
- Supports UK Type Archives Initiative (a protocol built on top of HTTP designed to distribute, gather, and federate digital collections). The UK Type Archives Initiative is a project to continue late in the entry process when you want.
- Submitters can register that the publication information can be accessible to public.
- Sabanci University members can log in with their SULN account
- Search feature support (Subject, items)
- Subject Tree (The item can be addressed in Library of Congress Subject Tree)
- Built in search engine:
  - Supports two kind of search: simple and advanced
  - Supports full text search
  - Saved search support
  - Saved search support (items receive search result within an email message periodically)
  - Browsing archive with different fields (Subjects, item Types, etc.)

Item Types
The following types of items are collected within this repository:

- Article
- Papers in Conference Proceedings
- Conference / Workshop / Seminar Item
- Book
- Book Volume / Chapter
- Monograph
- Voluntary Edition / Special Issues
- Book Review
- Theses / Masters / Projects Supervision
- Patent
- Display
- Exhibition
- Assay, Thesis, Fellowship, Grants
- Editorial Board Membership
- Inclusions in Journals, Books, Encyclopedias, Catalogues
- Projects

* Only these types can be searchable or browseable depends on security settings. The others cannot be accessible by any way.

Actions
The following actions can be performed for items within this repository:

- Add Item: Begin a new deposit item
- Import Item: Import records into your workspace
- Deposit Item: Send item to additional review
- New Version: Use this to submit a new version of this item. It will create an exact copy which can then be made
Roles

In the application there is five level of roles. These roles are described below:

- User

  All faculty members and administrative staff are have this role. People with this role can perform these actions:

  - Adding new own item
  - Updating existing own items
  - Can send the item to editorial review
  - Can return back the item from editorial review to user
  - Can request delete for item in the archive
  - Can see one PR (Personal Information Report)

- Editor

  The items deposited by users goes to the archive after an editorial review. Only editors can send items to archive. Editors change depends on item types, division and item status. People with this role can perform these actions:

  - Adding new own item
  - Updating existing own items
  - Can send the own item to editorial review
  - Can return back the own item from editorial review to user
  - Can request delete the own item in the archive
  - Can see own OHR (Personal Information Report)
  - For items that matches additional criteria:

    - Edits the item for only spell errors
    - Sends the item to the archive
    - Returns back the item to user with an email notification

  You can see the editors depends on item types on the table below.
